Official Invitation from Conference Chair

Dear Prospective Exhibitor,

The IEEE Compound Semiconductor IC Symposium (CSICS) Exhibition will be held at the Hilton Waikoloa Village in on Hawaii's Big Island on October 16-19, 2011. The CSICS Exhibition brings together experts in circuit design and device fabrication in compound semiconductor ICs as well as high speed silicon and other advanced technology ICs. The CSICS plenary session, held in the morning prior to the exhibition opening, will feature international speakers as well as speakers who are industry leaders.

Last year's CSICS exhibit in Monterey was a very big success. Many of the vendors realized what a high quality, focused conference we have and what an opportunity it was to reach their customers on both a technical and business level. We've had several inquiries from vendors as to how they can participate in a bigger way.

The CSICS Exhibition features vendors offering various products and services including:

- Simulation and modeling software
- Specialty semiconductor materials (epitaxy, substrates, high purity gases and related compounds)
- Manufacturing equipment including photolithography, etch, thin films, ion implantation
- Wafer surface analysis and metrology equipment and services
- High frequency test and characterization
- Technical publications and industry intelligence

Foundry services for GaAs and related compounds as well as advanced silicon technologies

Hawaii's Big Island, one of the most scenic locations in the continental United States, has over 30 non-stop flights per day from major U.S. Hubs as well as many connections from Honolulu.

Information about the CSIC Symposium can be viewed at: <http://www.csics.org>.

Please mark your calendars today and plan to attend the CSICS Exhibition in Hawaii in 2011. Please contact Lukrecija Lelong (see below) for registration information. Please also consider increasing your visibility at the Symposium with Gold or Silver level corporate sponsorship.

We look forward to welcoming you to the CSICS Exhibition in 2011!

Conference Highlights

Conference Scope

From its beginning in 1978 as the GaAs IC symposium, CSICS has evolved to become the preeminent international forum for developments in compound semiconductor integrated circuits, embracing GaAs, InP, GaN, SiGe, and more recently, CMOS technology. Coverage includes all aspects of the technology, from materials issues and device fabrication, through IC design and testing, high volume manufacturing, and system applications. The IEEE Compound Semiconductor IC Symposium (CSICS) provides the ideal forum to present the latest results in high-speed digital, analog, microwave/millimeter wave, mixed mode, and optoelectronic integrated circuits. First-time papers concerned with the utilization and application of InP, GaAs, SiGe, GaN and other compound semiconductors in military and commercial products are invited. Specific technical areas of interest include:

- Innovative RFIC and mm-wave IC Device & Circuit Concepts
- Millimeter-wave/High-Speed CMOS IC
- Circuit Design & Fabrication
- Manufacturing Technology & Cost Issues
- CAD/CAM/CAT Tools & Techniques
- IC Testing & Methodology
- Packaging Technology
- Reliability
- Advanced Device Applications
- System Applications (e.g., wireless, vehicular, RADAR, military)
- Optoelectronic and OEIC applications

High quality technical papers will be selected from worldwide submissions for oral presentation and publication in the Symposium Digest. Invited papers and panel sessions on topics of current importance to the Compound Semiconductor IC community will complete the program.
